Ghouls Had Robbed the Grave of Mrs. Rose Neidlinger in New Augusta Cemetery.

A PECULIAR WARNING GIVEN

HUSBAND AND FRIENDS' SAD SEARCH FOR THE BODY.

Jealousy Among Ghouls May Have Caused the Warning to Be Given -Attitude of College.

For the second time within one week a body has been recovered from the Central College of Physicians and Surgeons. Last wife of Manson Neidlinger, of New trying to get him out, but Captain Hyland ordered his bond placed at a high figure. The body was taken from the Pleasant Hill Cometery betweeen Traders Point and New Augusta some time last week.

The notification to Mr. Neidlinger of the stealing of his wife's body was similar to that given Mrs. Middleton, mother of the NEW CASTLE, IND., NOW REGARDED girl who was found in the college last Wednesday night. Much secrecy was maintained about the whole affair. The identity of the person who gave the information is not known to Neidlinger, as the word was received over the telephone from some one who said he was in Indianapolis.

On last Tuesday night Neidlinger, who is a miller at New Augusta, was called to the telephone. A strange voice told him that the person talking had very important information to give him. Mr. Neidlinger ature to the effect that "there's nothing civic organizations, the historical societies, asked the man who he was and what he in a name," and that "a rose by any other the peasants and the children. RECOGNIZED THE VOICE. He recognized the strange voice. This time the man explained the reason for his failure to appear Tuesday night. He said to New Augusta, but the information he wanted Mr. Neidlinger to know could probyard and opened the grave of his wife he would find the body missing. He further said the body could be found at the Central Medical College if Mr. Neidlinger acted quickly. He also said that if the body was recovered he would expect to be rewarded for giving the information. Mr. Neidlinger said he made no bargain with the man concerning a reward, but began at once to investigate the story. He remained awake Friday night, worried over the gruesome information. Early Saturday morning he went to his brother, Frank the story. Manson Neidlinger said he decided to go to the graveyard at once, but his brother persuaded him to get a party of men and have the grave opened. They decided to go Saturday night. The visit was again postponed until yesterday morning, when the Neidlinger brothers met Joseph Cropper and Clark and Alfred Fink. of New Augusta. The men went to the graveyard shortly after daybreak. They found the grave in perfect condition, and were at first inclined not to open it. Nothing about the grave showed signs that ened and the body found missing.

it had been tampered with. Neidlinger, however, would not rest until he had seen the inside of the coffin. The grave was Neidlinger decided at once to follow up the information furnished by the strange man. He and his friends came to Indianapolis yesterday afternoon, each man sworn to secrecy. The little party went to the office of Prosecutor Collins and asked for a search warrant. The warrant was issued to Joseph Cropper, who is a constable in New Augusta. It was for searchng the Central College of Physicians and Surgeons. The party then asked Captain Kruger for two patrolmen. They declined to give him any information about their errand, except that it was in search of a body. Captain Kruger finally decided to allow Bicycle Policemen Trimpe and Lowe to accompany the men to the college. Arriving there they could not gain entrance, as the janitor and the internes were away. The little group of men talked in whispers. They would not tell the two bikemen who they were or what body they were after. After remaining at the college for nearly an hour they decided, on seeing several newspaper men on the corner, to return RETURNED AT 8 O'CLOCK. About 8 o'clock the crowd again returned to the police station and asked the assistance of the police. Captain Hyland declined to let any officers go unless he knew for what purpose they were wanted. Cropper, who seemed to be the leader of the crowd, finally told Captain Hyland who they were and what their mission was, and he detailed Sergeants Scheigert and Boylan. Two internes were found at the college and the men were taken into the cellar and shown the cadavers. A body of a woman was lying on a dissecting table, and this Neidlinger said was not his wife. The doctors then opened a barrel and brought out another body of a woman. As soon as it was placed on the table Neidlinger and his brother identified it as the body of Mrs. Neidlinger. Neidlinger recognized the body by a scar in the middle of the fore-He was greatly excited and became more perturbed the longer he remained in the college. A call was sent to Dr. Alexander. Neidlinger said he wanted the colege authorities to stand the expense of reburying the body. He asked the internes f the college would do that, and they could give him no information. Dr. Alexander did not arrive until 9:30 o'clock, and by this time Neidlinger had become very nervous. After Dr. Alexander arrived the body was sent to Flanner & Buchanan's undertaking rooms, where it was prepared for burial It will be taken back to the Pleasant Hill

Cemetery this morning. Neidlinger said one of the reasons that the party maintained such secrecy during the day was that they were afraid that it they were unsuccessful in finding the body and the news became known it would have bad effect on his wife's mother, who is now very old. He said his wife was twenty-two years old when she died two months She died from tuberculosis. She was buried in Pleasant Hill Cemetery on July DOCTOR EMBARRASSED. Dr. Alexander was seen after the body was taken away and seemed somewhat embarrassed. He said he felt hurt at the turn of affairs within the past week. He had not known from whence the body came or to whom it belonged. He said he was demonstrator at the college and procured bodies for dissecting purposes. He was sorry that the body was stolen. The public institutions furnish plenty of cadavers for dissecting purposes. It was thought last night that some one with a grievance against the college or Dr. Alexander was responsible for warning the relatives. Mrs. Middleton, the Irvington colored woman, was notified by a note being slipped under her door while she was absent at church. Wesley Gates, of Irvington, was next notified by a strange

Anderson graveyard he would find the body of his daughter missing. Gates went to the graveyard and dug down to the top of the pine box covering, but did not look into

It is said that jealousy has arisen among the ghouls in the city and because one colored man has secured a contract with two of the big colleges another ghoul has taken this way of "getting even." In the Wesley Gates case a young colored man called Gates from the house and told him that a stranger was at the curb in a carriage and wanted to see him. Mr. Gates could not distinguish the features of either man. It is said by some who know that the ghouls who have been furnishing bodies for the Central College are colored men and that one of them is a little dark negro resem-bling the one that called at Mr. Gates's house last week.

Fred Walker, giving his name as Fred Trunk and residence at 228 North Capitol avenue, was arrested yesterday evening by Sergeant Schroeder and Patrolmen Vaughn and Coulson, charged with being intoxicated and offending persons on a street car. The officers were bringing him in from Germania Park, where it is said he attempted to entice two girls into the woods. One of the girls was twelve years old and the other thirteen. On the car Walker tried to get away from the officers by sliding under the grating next to the trolley poles and was struck by a pole, but was not seriously injured. home of the American Beauty rose. It is also well named the Rose City. The company with which Mr. Heller is connected has now four acres of roses under cultivation. Some time ago the company imported a new variety of yellow rose from Germany and a suitable name has not yet been found for the rose. It grows in great luxuriousness at New Castle. The rose is called "444" and it will be known by this number until an attractive name has been suggested. Several months ago the president of the company was in Indianapois, and in a "hotel lobby talk" with a Journal reporter he announced that his company was looking for a name for a very handsome rose. The little interview evi-dently attracted attention, for the company has received numerous suggestions from people in different parts of the country who thought they could offer a suitable name. One of the writers suggested that the rose be called "The Alice Roosevelt." The fact that another flower has been named after Miss Roosevelt stood in the way of an acceptance of the writer's suggestion. Mr. Heller in speaking of the American Beauty said that the question of where this rose was first grown is a mooted one. "It is supposed to have originated in Washington in the garden of George Bancroft, the historian," he said. Mr. Heller says that his company grew and sold in the neighborhood of a million and a quarter of roses last year.

Interest in Lincoln League.

R. Harry Miller, of Fairmount, president of the Lincoln League of Indiana, was at the Hotel English yesterday. He says the organization of Republican clubs over the State is progressing satisfactorily, and is especially so in Miami county. At Peru the McKinley Club has been reorganized. It was originally organized in 1890 the day after William McKinley was defeated for Congress. As soon as all the county managers are appointed the league will get to work in earnest, Mr. Miller says. Chairman Goodrich, of the Republican state committeee, has asked that the league take charge of the work of getting the student voter home to cast his ballot.

The Senator May Reach Indianapolis

Senator Beveridge, who opened the campaign at South Bend Saturday night, will arrive in this city probably to-night. From South Bend he went to Chicago yesterday morning to meet Senator Knute Nelson, of Minnesota, who has been awaiting him in Chicago since Saturday morning.

Senator Beveridge went direct from Denver, where he had opened the Colorado campaign, to South Bend. The train on which he was making his way east being late he wired asking that the train to South Bend be held for him. Fearing the train might not be held he wired for an engine and coach, which was ready to start when he arrived at Englewood. The regular train, however, waited ten minutes and the senator arrived in South Bend at 7:50 p. m.

GREAT HARVEST WAGON LADEN Said he thought Fisher got the money. WITH GRAIN, VEGETABLES, ETC.

Procession That Excited the Interest of the Spectators-Singing Societies in Attendance.

The kirmess of the Germans at Germania Park yesterday was one of the most successful national fetes ever held here. During the afternoon and evening there were between 8,000 and 10,000 persons in the park. The ceremonies and amusements were immensely popular. The whole event was marked by true national spirit.

The fete of the kirmess is a harvest celebration. The name comes from the German "kirchmesse" (church-mass) and like many others was transformed from the church holiday to a popular holiday by the process of changing customs. It is practiced in Germany as an expression of gratitude to the Supreme Being for a bountiful harvest. In Germany the fete procession headed by the burgomaster and his officers. Then follows the agricultural vehicles laden with the products of the field, the garden and the vineyard. The bounty of Providence is typified by the

At Germania Park vesterday the ceretional spirit except for modifications to show American national spirit. The pro-cession was announced by a herald who rode a magnificent black charger. He wore the costume of a knightly page. He was followed by Miller's band. Then came Uncle Sam, Emperor William and Buffalo They rode abreast and vied with each other in pleasant visages. They were to typify the pleasant relations between the two countries, Buffalo Bill being present to testify to the good will of the mid-dle West, as Uncle Sam is more of a Yankee type.

THE HARVEST WAGON. The harvest wagon was laden with grain, vegetables, fruit and flowers. It was prepared in southern German style and was followed by Swabian, Bavarian and other peasants and children in native costume.

The newest feature of the celebration was the appearance of a jolly band of Rhinelanders of the region between Cologne and Aix-la-Chapelle. They represented the sharpshooters that for 600 years have been known as the Society of Saint Sebastianus. They were dressed in the remarkable garments of that class-wide white trousers, spike-tailed coats, high hats, decorated with an oak wreath, and the long guns. The wagon of the vintagers was typical of the bounteous harvest of the vineyards. The procession moved about the park between 3 and 4 o'clock and was received by the thousands joyously and merrily. After the procession disbanded the sharpshooters practiced at the wooden bird. This inanimate target was suspended from a pole fifty feet in the air. Each sharpshoote had an opportunity to show his skill Among the sharpshooters it is the custom to decide who shall be king for the year following by this contest. Every shot is known, as the bird, being suspended, moves when it is struck. This contest was watched by thousands. It resulted in Otto Graf, of Haughville, being declared the best shot and he will be king until the next kirmess.

MANY AMUSEMENTS. The amusements for the crowd were multitudinous. Beginning with the children, there was the sand pile, the monkey and bird cages and the merry-go-round. The last was patronized by all, however. About the ground a number of booths, such as are essential features at native kirmesses, were established. In one of these roast suckling pig was served. In several others there were sausages characteristic of different districts of Germany. There was a big coffee tent. Everything was served with fidelity to national style.

'Weisse Roessel" was the culmination of the feasting features. This beautiful structure, copied from an ancient style of architecture, was visited by all. As its size was inadequate for the great numbers, a wine tent was placed near by where the overflow was received. The dancing pavilion was thronged until the orchestra had played the last number. Altogether the celebration was regarded as an enthusiastic success. The singing societies sat in groups singing, and everywhere the national spirit was displayed There was not a single feature to mar the day, and those present look forward to a

Rudolph Dunham, sixty years old, rooming at 224 West Vermont street, met with a peculiar accident last night at 6:30 o'clock and nearly bled to death. Dunham had been in the South Side calling on a chiropodist. When he left the latter he started for a street car. As Dunham reached for the handle on the side of the car his wrist caught on an open knife blade in his vest pocket. When Dunham gave a lurch upward he was cut on the wrist. Several of the smaller arteries in the wrist were severed. He was taken to the City Dispensary, where Dr. Schenck sewed up the injury.

He get it back when he arrived home. "I think not," replied Fleetwood, "Fisher had only been working down there awhile. I never liked the looks of the man, anyway, but I never thought he would do me like this." Captain Hyland and Patrolman Stevens, at the tunnel, skirmished around and got a pair of shoes and cap for Fleetwood and took him to the station. He had his return ticket, but his train had been gone several hours. Arrangements were made to send him home on another train.

THE COUNCIL FINANCE COMMITTEE WILL CONSIDER IT.

Change of Sentiment Concerning Some of the Reductions Previously Proposed.

Council committee on finance has been called together by Chairman Wynne for another session to-night to further consider the proposed reductions in the city budget for 1903. Mr. Wynne believes many of the reductions proposed will not be pressed by the majority that favored burthened vehicles and the procession is them at the last meeting. There is under-There is an old assertion in classic liter- augmented by the playing of bands, the stood to be a change of sentiment among some of the Republican members with reference to the reduction of $10,000 in the appropriation for lighting. It is likely that all or part of this amount will be restored, as all the councilmen are interestmonies were practically true to the na- ed in getting adequate lighting for their wards. Mayor Bookwalter has shown that the increase provided was particularly to furnish localities that were discriminated against by the Taggart administration because they were Republican and that they cannot be adequately supplied with lights without the increase.

As the cuts proposed were largely for the purpose of providing a way for the mayor to recommend an increase of $23,350 in the fire force pay roll appropriation, necessary by the passage of the ordinance increasing the pay of the firemen, there is little probability of their being pressed if it becomes sure that the ordinance cannot pass over the mayor's veto. There is no doubt that Councilman Rhodes will refuse to vote to pass the ordinance over the mayor's veto, and his vote will be necessary to give the ordinance the necessary two-thirds vote. Mr. Rhodes believes the increases reasonable and deserved, but not in the present condition inances. He determined to support the measure until it was shown that the increases cannot be made now, and he is said to fell that this showing has been made. This being the case the appropriations are likely to be approved without much reduction. A special meeting of the Council will probably be held to-morrow night or Wednesday night to pass the appropriation and tax-levy ordinances.

THE WONDER OF THE AGE

The "Omega" Odorless Gas Stove

Marks a revolution in gas heating and household sanitation. Perfect combustion is secured by the generation of intense heat and the thorough mixing progressively of the gas supply with air, by which it is possible to use at least forty-five cubic feet of air to every cubic foot of gas. Its operation combines three important and indispensable factors-economy in fuel, perfect combustion, sterilization. In the "OMEGA" they are the result of mechanical combinations produced as the result of extensive scientific research.
